- Cellulite affects women of all ages
- Cellulite affects women of all shapes and sizes
- Cellulite affects women of all race groups
- Cellulite is influenced by fluctuations in oestrogen levels
- The incidence of cellulite is said to have increased due to the presence of synthetic chemicals in food and water supplies
- These synthetic chemicals mimic natural estrogen and bind to the estrogen receptor sites in the body

Because cellulite is triggered by fluctuation of oestrogen levels, it is seen almost exclusively in women.
